Introduction

A scheduled periodic review of Instant Ticket Quality reports for fiscal year ended June 30, 2021 has been completed by Internal Audit. The periodic review was conducted in accordance with the Office of the Arkansas Lottery (OAL) Internal Audit Charter, which governs the types and objectives of engagements performed by the OAL Internal Audit function.

Background

On an annual basis, Scientific Games International, Inc. (Scientific Games) selects three instant ticket games produced on behalf of the OAL for independent testing designed to assess the selected tickets' security and durability. Scientific Games compensates the independent lab, Evaluations, Inc. (EVAL), of Reynoldsburg, Ohio, for completing the security and durability tests. Evaluations, Inc. issues three individual reports to the OAL. Each report includes a summary report of its findings and detailed information and exhibits regarding the selected instant ticket performed.

Evaluations, Inc. was formed as a C-Corp, incorporated in the State of Ohio, December 1994 and opened for business on February 13, 1995. Since opening, they have provided client independent security, integrity and quality examinations of scratch-off and pull-tab products. Other areas in which they have provided services within the lottery industry include audits of "live" lottery drawings, examinations of all sets and drawing equipment, and quasi-statistical analysis of the randomly drawn numbers for lottery games.

EVAL uses four different subjective ratings for the quality, security, and protective coating characteristics when evaluating instant lottery tickets. The subjective ratings used by EVAL are good, relatively good, fair and poor. There overall security rating is usually a "balance" of four subcategory rating. The security subcategories are (1) surreptitious reading, (2) data removal or concealment and replacement alterations, (3) "cut and paste" alterations, and (4) color copier reproduction/alteration. Basic definitions/descriptions of ticket characteristics and test results which would result in the above ratings are provided below. With respect to "acceptable" as provided for Quality in reports, that would be equivalent to either "good" or "relatively good" as described below.

Background (Continued)

Good

With respect to quality, a good rating implies that there are no consistent or readily noticeable flaws throughout the ticket submission.

A good overall security rating would imply that none of the evaluated compromise or alteration methods presented a threat to ticket security, and that all or most of the cover material/paper card stock compromise methods resulted in no data read out.

If the ticket components are not noticeably affected during the various water exposure evaluations (i/e. submersions and water puddling), then the protective coating integrity is usually given a good rating.

Relatively Good

A relatively good quality rating usually is given when minor, but easily noticeable, quality flaws are present which do not affect ticket security or integrity or data legibility.

With respect to overall security, a relatively good rating may be given if some minor threats are present with respect to ticket security.

Noticeable effects during the various water exposure evaluations, which do not result in the data becoming illegible, typically result in a relatively good rating for protective coating integrity.

Fair

With respect to quality, a fair rating may be given when numerous minor flaws are present, or when quality flows are present (e.g> in the overprinting) which adversely affect ticket security or integrity, but do not result in a serious threat to security or integrity. In addition, difficult cover removal, severe cover material dusting, and ticket-to-ticket variations in appearance or test results, may result in a fair quality rating.

An overall security rating of fair usually implies that several compromise/alteration methods were considered to present threats to ticket security. While these threats should be taken seriously and corrective action is usually recommended, these threats typically are not "serious." An overall security rating of fair may be assigned, even in the presence of a serious threat, depending on other test results (i.e. a serious threat is present with respect to color copier reproduction, but the surreptitious readout, data removal/concealment and replacement, and "cut and paste" subcategories have good or relatively good ratings).

A fair protective coating integrity rating typically implies that damage to the game data area inks and coatings occurred during the various water exposure evaluations, and some data may not fully legible. The damage may result in a perceived threat to ticket security, but the threat typically is not considered serious.

Poor

A poor quality rating in indicated when quality flaws in the tickets result in some of the following effects: illegible data, cover removal which results in damage to the data, or overprinting flaws which disguise cover material compromise.

Poor ratings are rarely assigned to the overall security category, since this area is defined by four subcategories. However, in the event that a very simple compromise method (which may be accidently discovered and requires little hands-on time) is highly successful with little or no noticeable ticket damage, the overall security rating may be reported as poor.

With respect to the protective coating integrity, a poor rating is usually assigned when various exposures to liquids result in complete (or nearly complete) loss of legible data and/or removal of the data inks with no other noticeable damage, or when cover removal results in damage to the data which causes it to be illegible.

They do not provide a rating for the overall integrity of the tickets but do indicate in the report, and in the report conclusions, if possible, threats to the integrity of the tickets were noted during the evaluation.

Purpose, Objectives, and Scope

The overall purpose, objectives, and scope of the audit were as follows:

Purpose

The purpose of this periodic review was to ensure that independent forensic testing reports obtained by the OAL provide reasonable assurance that instant tickets sold by the OAL to the public are secure and durable.

Objectives

Review independent laboratory reports to ensure OAL instant tickets subjected to testing passed all durability and security tests.

Scope

The procedures included reviewing the reports issued by Evaluations, Inc. relative to three (3) instant ticket games submitted to Evaluations, Inc. for testing procedures to ensure they passed all durability and security tests performed. The three (3) instant ticket games tested by Evaluations, Inc. were "X10 Multiplier" (Game #570), "X20 Multiplier" (Game #571), "$10,000,000 Cash Extravaganza" (Game #583). Given that the review was limited to the reports issued for these games, there were no other games selected, by Scientific Games International, Inc., for testing, after January 5, 2021 (the Evaluations, Inc. report dates).

Observation

The results of Evaluations, Inc. was as follows:

"X10 Multiplier" Game 570

The quality of these "X10 Multiplier" tickets was judged to be acceptable. No quality flaws were identified which adversely affected ticket security or integrity.

The overall security of the "X10 Multiplier" tickets was judged to be relatively good.

The integrity of the game data area protective coating was judged to be relatively good.

"X20 Multiplier" Game 571

The quality of these "X20 Multiplier" tickets was judged to be acceptable. No quality flaws were identified which adversely affected ticket security or integrity.

The overall security of the "X20 Multiplier" tickets was judged to be relatively good.

The integrity of the game data area protective coating was judged to be relatively good.

"$10,000,000 Cash Extravaganza" Game 583

The quality of these "$10,000,000 Cash Extravaganza" tickets was judged to be acceptable. No quality flaws were identified which adversely affected ticket security or integrity.

The overall security of the "$10,000,000 Cash Extravaganza" tickets was judged to be relatively good.

The integrity of the game data area protective coating was judged to be relatively good.

Internal Audit has no observations or recommendations.
